ALLIED PLANES BLASTING PATH FOR REDS

Meandering Along the Main Stem By WASH FAYETTE

Have you noticed that home-grown (honest) watermelon in the window at Henry Sparks's seed store on West Court Street?

Well, it is worth taking a look at, because it was grown in Fayette County and apparently is in a perfect state of preservation and about ripe enough to eat.

I would have missed it if I hadn't stopped a moment while Henry was scraping the last vestige of ice from the sidewalk in front of his store. (I know he is anxious to get rid of the ice as soon as possible so the demand for spring seeds will increase).

Henry called my attention to the 12 to 15 pound watermelon in his window, and explained that it was a new type "winter watermelon" grown by William F. Baker, of the White Oak Road, and given to him December 1.

I called for William and learned that he still has one or two sizeable watermelons from last year's crop, and had eaten one just before Christmas.

It seems that William sent to some seed house and obtained the seed of the melon, because the melons were supposed to be at their best about Christmas time, and that already some of the melons have carried nearly two months beyond Christmas and seem to be ready to continue their perfect keeping indefinitely.

No preservative is used to keep the melons. They are simply placed in a cellar or other cool place and forgotten until ready to eat along late in the winter. Some melons:

I believe the era of meetings featuring the reading of long articles from pamphlets, books and other sources, is nearing the end, for leaders of organizations where this has been the routine for years are discovering that such procedure is doing little to help maintain interest and keep the organization alive.

A great many of you folks who have gone through such sessions will readily understand that something more to the point and of more interest might be worked out, as some societies are demonstrating.

I mention the subject in this column because time after time I have heard people say in effect that "the meeting was tiresome and I had an awful time staying awake while this, that and the other was being read and I saw several who really did go to sleep." That means that no one in particular received much benefit from the "educational" (or whatever it is meant for) part of the program.

At the present time the average person wants something to keep him awake when at meetings of the organizations to which he belongs.

I have seen more than one organization drop far down the line or vanish altogether, just because nothing of particular interest was offered by those at the head.

In some instances the serving of food has done much to keep some such organizations alive after the appeal of programs had all but vanished.

MORE COLD WEATHER MOVING FROM WEST

Another Heavy Blanket of Snow on New England

(By The Associated Press)
A fresh cover of one to eight inches of snow lay over southern New England, southern New York and northern Pennsylvania today while most of the nation enjoyed above normal temperatures.

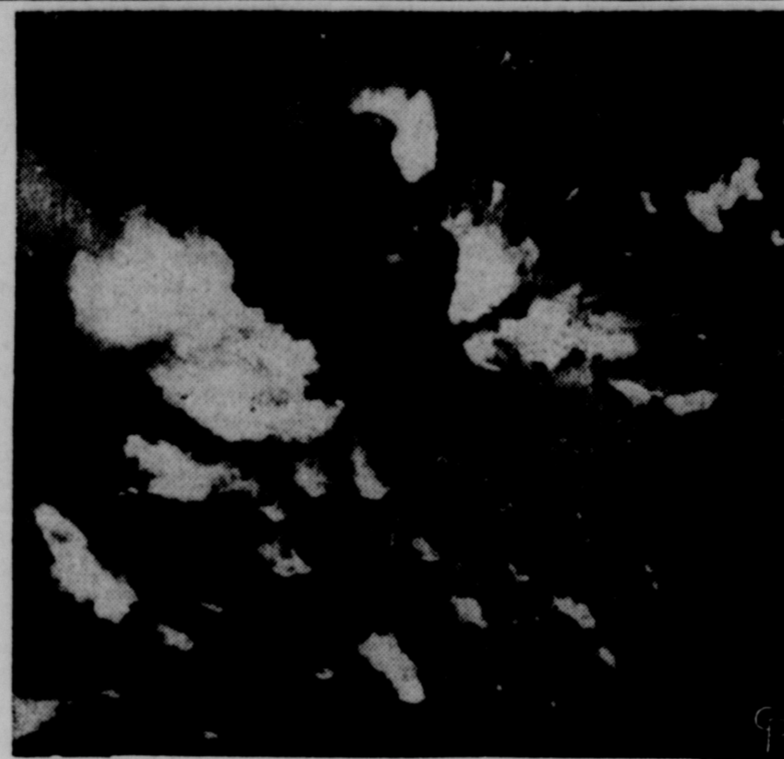

The Chicago weather bureau said it was about 10 degrees above normal throughout the country except in New England, and above freezing except along the Canadian border from Montana eastward to the north Atlantic coast.

A new cold spell developed in the northwest, moving slowly southeastward. The mercury was expected to drop to near zero tomorrow in Minnesota, northwestern Wisconsin and Iowa and to below zero levels in Minnesota Friday. Forecasters said the cold would moderate as it reached the Chicago area and continued eastward.

Peace Feelers Are Put Out By Japs As 'End in Sight' in Manila Battle

THIS DRAMATIC TWO-PICTURE series shows what happens when Navy bombs meet their target "dead center." In the left photo, bombs from carrier based planes of the U. S. Pacific fleet have just smashed into a Jap transport in Takao harbor at Formosa, during the strike of January 15. Flames and smoke leap skyward as the concussion of bombs forms an almost perfect circle around the doomed ship, while the photo at right, taken an instant later, shows debris powdering the sea and scattering high into the air as the enemy ship disintegrates. These are official U. S. Navy photos. (International Soundphoto)

NAZIS TO DIE AFTER SAYING 'WAR IS LOST'

(By the Associated Press)
Three high Nazi officials in Baden have been sentenced to death by a special German court, reportedly for saying "the war is lost," Paris radio said today.

The Paris report said "the SS (Storm Troop) leader of the provinces of Baden and Alsace, the minister of the interior in Baden, Dr. Karl Pfleumer, and the minister of public education in Baden," were sentenced because "they had entered into a dispute with Gauleiter Walter Wagner and had accused him of public corruption in service."

"Besides," said the broadcast, "they had dared to say, 'The war is lost.'"

LITTLE GIRL KILLED BY PET BULLDOG

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14.—(AP)—A frantic struggle by a mother and grandfather to wrest a 21-month-old girl from the grip of a pet bulldog at their home last night was futile and the baby was killed.

When Marguerite Theresa Derdenger attempted to stroke the dog's back the animal clamped its jaws at the base of her neck, Mrs. Drucilla Derdenger, the child's mother, told police. Mrs. Derdenger and the child's grandfather, Albert Lange, fought for several minutes to loosen the dog's grip but when Marguerite finally was freed it was too late.

Police said the mother asked that the 5-year-old dog, named Wolf, be destroyed.

The child's father, Staff Sgt. Charles P. Derdenger, is stationed at Camp Barkeley, Texas.

THOUSANDTH SUPERFORT PLASTERED WITH MONEY

WICHITA, Kas., Feb. 14.—(AP)—A B-29 Superfortress—the 1,000th to be manufactured at the Wichita plant of the Boeing Airplane Company—was delivered to the Army today, plastered with about $10,000 in coins and currency.

The modification was officially declared to have been made "to equalize the sentence in accord with War Department policy."

Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) of the Senate military committee was informed of developments in a letter from Major General Myron C. Cramer, justice advocate general.

First Test of Big Three Plan Is Expected To Come in Poland

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—(AP)—President Roosevelt may report directly to Congress and the nation on the accomplishments and far-reaching significance of his meeting with Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill.

He is reported to be greatly cheered by the agreements reached on military and political issues. Associates consider it likely he will want to tell the American people himself, when he gets home, how these agreements can shorten the war and to contribute to an Atlantic Charter peace.

First hand information on the historic Big 3 gathering in the Crimea came from James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director, who arrived yesterday from the Crimea and met newsmen in late afternoon. Byrnes said he hoped Mr. Roosevelt would make a radio broadcast or address Congress.

Roosevelt Chairman
He disclosed that the president had acted as chairman of the meeting and proposed two of the agreements—those on liberated areas and the Dumbarton Oaks voting issue—which were announced in Monday's communiqué.

The Dumbarton Oaks decision, like many others arrived at, remains temporarily secret, but it cleared the way for the April 25 United Nations conference. That date, Byrnes indicated, may reflect important estimates of future military developments by the Big Three.

He expressed conviction it had nothing to do with Russia's plans for possibly entering the war against Japan. He described it as probably the earliest date at which the leaders thought the conference could be called in view of the military situation.

War End Not Indicated
If there is any hope that the major battles for Germany may be finished by that time, Byrnes did not indicate it. He said the military plans made in the Crimea call "for a war involving more men than ever before in this conflict."

The military chiefs, he added, "do not minimize the possibility of civilian collapse in Germany," but they are counting only on fighting to the bitter end, "with greater cooperation than has ever before existed."

Byrnes emphasized that the declaration on liberated areas, in which the United States is committed to share with Britain and Russia in European political settlements, is of the "greatest importance."

It means an end, he said, to the danger of political rivalries between the other two powers which would lead to development of spheres of influence.

In his opinion it minimizes, if it does not remove, the threat of violence in Europe's small nations where chaos follows war.

This should facilitate establishment of a United Nations security organization and the writing of the peace at another great international conference to follow after the end of hostilities. Byrnes indicated the Big Three had agreed there should be a general peace conference.

He explained the situation this way: In Greece, Poland and Yugoslavia. (Please Turn To Page Two) the infantrymen proposed tying ropes to the trees so that when the next V-1 was sighted all the outpost guards would have to do would be to call back:

"One coming up in alley six."

The trees then would be pulled down on alley six to make a path. Another idea was to set up aerial gas stations and just before the buzz bomb cut out to go into a dive, to pump some more fuel into it so it would travel on to the rear echelons.

German troops are even more critical of this "super duper" weapon that was to win the war for them. Two prisoners are reported to have complained that one buzz bomb took off after a Messerschmitt 109 and that another turned around and dived behind the Nazi lines.

Salary Boost Proposed For Counties' Officials

Gov. Lausche Turns Thumbs Down on Bill To Increase Pay And Provide Pension for Judges

By E. E. EASTERLY
COLUMBUS, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The Judges' Pension bill had one strike on it today, called by Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

The governor said the pensions proposed in legislation introduced in the Senate constituted "a luxury and an extravagance," and added many taxpayers would wonder how they could be justified.

Asked whether he would veto the bill in event the legislature passed it, Lausche declined to say at a press conference.

The legislation, offered by Senator Fred G. Reiners (R) of Cincinnati, would permit judges to retire at 60 on quarter pay after 12 years' service; on half pay after 18 years' service.

They would be required to contribute 4 percent of their salary to the pension fund.

The governor has served nine years as a judge in Cleveland.

In the Senate yesterday salary increases of 25 percent were proposed for county officials in a bill introduced by Senator Ralph A. Winter (R) of Medina County.

The measure, fixing a minimum of $1800 a year and a maximum of $7500, would apply to county commissioners, auditor, treasurer, county clerk, sheriff, recorder and prosecutor.

Ohio banks and building and loan associations would be authorized to make home loans, guaranteed by the federal government, to service men under bills approved by the Senate and sent to the House.

The Senate gave final approval to a bill carrying $8,000,000 for highway construction.

The appointment of Mrs. Maude McQuate of Cleveland to the Liquor Control Board was approved unanimously by the Senate Rules committee and was expected to come up for a vote in the Senate today.

Stark County's three Democratic members of the House of Representatives have asked that body for an investigation of the activities about the legislative halls of James Roberts, former Republican member of the House from Stark County whom they identify as welfare director of the Timken Roller Bearing Co. of Canton.

In a formal resolution introduced in the House the trio—Reps. Ralph S. Cook, Robert Menegay and Ed Witmar—said rumors are afloat that Roberts is assisting the Reference committee, lobbying for the Timken Roller Bearing Co., acting as contact man for Gov. Lausche with the legislature, and that he has special privileges granted by the speaker.

Governor Lausche said Roberts was not in his employ. "I don't know the man. I don't believe I ever saw him, but some one was here today wanting me to meet him. I said I would be glad to see him."

PRESIDENTIAL ADVISOR
WINGING WAY TO ITALY

PARIS, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Samuel Rosenman left by special plane today for Italy, where it was reliably reported he would confer with President Roosevelt.

Rosenman is a special advisor to the President.

Roosevelt is expected to call on Pope Pius during his Italian travels, inspect war ruins there and return to various spots he visited in Italy as a young man.

Grim Yanks Advance Over Enemy Dead To Seal Doom of Suicide Groups—Cavite Captured With 'Surprising Ease'—Corregidor Is Next in Line

By LEONARD MILLIMAN
(By The Associated Press)
A tentative Japanese peace feeler was reported from London today after Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced "the end is in sight" in the battle for war-torn Manila.

Tokyo radio commentator told the world today it is Japan's policy "not to reject any hand which offers peace."

The commentator made his assertion during a discussion of the decisions announced by the "Big Three" at the Yalta conference.

"The American plan of world domination is clearly recognizable," the broadcaster said. "The only way to reestablish peace in the world is by a just policy as outlined by Foreign Minister Shigemitsu."

"Shigemitsu's principle is not to reject any hand which offers peace."

The Japanese Domei News Agency said America, Britain and Russia "are indulging in preposterous assumptions" that the European war will terminate before April 25, date set for the World Security conference in San Francisco.

"It is not possible that the German people," the Domei broadcast said, "who are fighting to decide the rise or fall of a people, will submit to unconditional surrender so easily."

Manila Being Mopped Up
Grim Yanks, advancing among ruins strewn with bodies of the foe, loosed the decisive blow for Manila today as Japanese cornered in a three square mile area near the Pasig River's mouth after other doughboys on the southern outskirts seized Cavite Naval Base and two airfields.

"The end of the enemy's trapped garrison is in sight," Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced on the 12th day since his columns entered the city.

Doom to be added to the more than 68,000 enemy casualties inflicted on Luzon Island in five weeks, the Japanese survivors within Manila are massed behind thick walls of the Intramuros, within government buildings and among docks.

Cavite, on the south shore of Manila Bay, fell Tuesday. The last Rising Sun warrior was killed at Nicholas Airfield near the city's southern outskirts, ending five bitter days of struggle. Nielson Airfield, on the southeast, was cleared of the foe.

Most of the enemy's big guns within Manila have been silenced. Thousands of Japanese have died here, adding to casualties which during the fifth week of the Luzon campaign exceeded 2,000.

Thirty-seventh Division Infantrymen of Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, using flamethrowers, rifle and bayonet, moved on the Intramuros after a slow push through the streets and alleyways, over and around wrecked houses, churches, hospitals and cemeteries.

Cavite Base Seized
American ground troops seized Cavite Naval Base on Manila Bay with surprising ease, battered through defenses which "must have been designed by the devil himself" to capture Nichols Field on the outskirts of Manila, and silenced most of the big Japanese guns commanding the Philippines capital.

The five-weeks' campaign for Luzon has cost the Japanese 68,000 casualties, MacArthur said, perhaps a third of Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's force on the main Philippines Island. American (Please Turn To Page Two)

OMMANEY BAY CASUALTIES
WERE LESS THAN 100 MEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Casualties aboard the Ommamey Bay, escort carrier whose loss was announced yesterday by the navy, totaled fewer than 100, Captain Howard L. Young, her skipper, said today.

The Ommamey Bay was sunk by torpedo fire from accompanying United States naval vessels after she was wrecked by two bombs from an attacking Japanese plane.

Captain Young said all survivors were picked up by ships in the formation and no lives were lost in the water.

Buzz Bombs A Joke To Doughboys
Germans Disgusted, Prisoners Reveal—Nazis Fear Yank Artillery More Than Hitler

By HAL BOYLE
IN GERMANY —(AP)— Adolf Hitler's buzz bombs may cause sleepless nights for city dwellers—but they are a joke to frontline doughboys.

Several of Germany's "victory weapons" have fallen in an infantry division sector but without causing a single casualty.

After one bomb clipped a path through the trees before landing, the infantrymen proposed tying ropes to the trees so that when the next V-1 was sighted all the outpost guards would have to do would be to call back:

"One coming up in alley six."

The trees then would be pulled down on alley six to make a path. Another idea was to set up aerial gas stations and just before the buzz bomb cut out to go into a dive, to pump some more fuel into

German troops are even more critical of this "super duper" weapon that was to win the war for them. Two prisoners are reported to have complained that one buzz bomb took off after a Messerschmitt 109 and that another turned around and dived behind the Nazi lines.

Wave after wave of rocket-firing Typhoons flew low over the foe to hurl their deadly lances. With flamethrowers, tanks and bayonets, the Canadian, British, Scotch and Welsh troops commanded by Gen. Henry Crerar advanced up to two miles in mud and flood waters of the Rhine northeast of Kleve. The Scots attacked with bagpipes skirling.

CANADIAN DRIVE IS HURLING BACK NAZIS IN WEST

Yanks Slog Ahead Through Mud To Smash Gaps in German Defenses

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
(By The Associated Press)

The German high command said today that tanks of Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian Army had broken into Sorau, important junction town five miles inside Brandenburg province and 83 miles southeast of Berlin, while farther south, Moscow reported, the German Queis River line was cracked 68 miles from Dresden.

A Moscow dispatch said Konev's men were smashing westward "in a sensational threat to split Germany asunder south of Berlin," and were nearing the upper Neisse River, some 50 miles from Dresden. A German stand is expected along the Neisse.

To the north, a neutral report said, Konev's troops were only 17 miles from a junction with Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's drive on Berlin across the Oder. Berlin said Zhukov was massing strong forces on the Oder for the grand assault on the Reich capital.

Path Blasted for Reds
More than 2,250 U. S. bombers and fighters struck Germany in widespread attacks today, delivering a main blow at Dresden which was already burning from a night assault by 800 heavy RAF bombers.

Dresden is only 68 miles or less from advancing Russian troops, and is a nerve center of Nazi defenses in central Germany. The day and night air blows were in direct and coordinated support of Marshal Ivan Konev's First Ukrainian Army.

The RAF bombed Dresden twice in attacks three hours apart.

Part of the American force, consisting of more than 1,350 Flying Fortresses and Liberators and 900 fighters, also bombed transportation and industrial targets at Chemnitz, 35 miles southwest of Dresden, and at Magdeburg, 70 miles west of Berlin.

A fourth formation was assigned to knock out an important Rhine bridge at Wesel, 19 miles ahead of the Canadian First Army on the Western Front.

The RAF dumped perhaps 2,200 tons of bombs on Dresden, refugee-packed capital of Saxony, which controls railroads to Berlin, Prague, Vienna and Breslau, and is the site of great engineering industries.

It was suggested unofficially in London that Air Marshal Sir Charles Portal, British air staff chief who returned from Yalta yesterday, brought instructions from the Big Three to deliver this and other blows in support of the Red armies whenever possible.

Canadians Drive On
With massed guns and under clouds of planes, Canadian First Army troops crushed six formidable counterattacks today and were advancing tonight beyond the breached Siegfried line at the top of the Western Front.

German infantry, tankers and parachute troops apparently were falling back into prepared positions between the Rhine and the Meuse in a desperate effort to stem the Allied flanking threat to the Ruhr. They were lashed by the mightiest air offensive yet visited upon the foe in the six-day offensive.

Massed artillery firing from the captured Reichswald forest roared incessantly at the seven crack German divisions opposing the Allied thrust between the Rhine and the Meuse, through the northern end of the original Siegfried line.

Wave after wave of rocket-firing Typhoons flew low over the foe to hurl their deadly lances. With flamethrowers, tanks and bayonets, the Canadian, British, Scotch and Welsh troops commanded by Gen. Henry Crerar advanced up to two miles in mud and flood waters of the Rhine northeast of Kleve. The Scots attacked with bagpipes skirling.

IT'S A TOSS UP WHO ENJOYED LIONS THE MOST

Elmar the Magician Thrills Children at Meeting Tuesday Night

It was a toss-up whether the sons and daughters of the Lions themselves had the most fun at the Lions Club father-son and daughter banquet at the Country Club Tuesday night.

The children—something like 67 were there—had their fill of Elmar the Magician's bag of tricks—all the conventional ones plus a few new twists. When Elmar asked for volunteer assistants from his youthful audience, nearly every hand shot up. Jackie Rettig, Bob Cannon, Michael Birely, Donna Orr, JoLynn Parrett and Billie Humphries were among the boys and girls who helped.

The fathers—some with children adopted for the evening—were not left out either. W. L. O'Brien, president of the club, had his time to shine when Elmar made a 50 cent piece O'Brien gave him appear sealed inside a can of tobacco. H. H. Denton, James Shoemaker and Norman McLean were costumed as King Cole, Mother Hubbard and Gargantua for another phase of the magic program. Another pseudomiracle was Elmar's clipping of Secretary Paul Van Voorhis' necktie and restoring it intact.

Diane Elliott, Jackie Rettig, Billie McCoy and Lon Ray Warner were serenaded with "Happy Birthday," for their anniversaries fell either on Tuesday or Wednesday. Cracker-Jack favors were ready for all the children.

The Lions gave their business session a quick once-over to devote as much time as possible to the program, but Earl Fisher was introduced as a new member and Howard Wright and Earl Boodt were named as program chairmen for the February meeting.

Don Brandenburg led group singing while A. E. Weatherly and Charles Orr were given credit for arranging the program.

CAP RECRUITING REOPENED HERE FOR WCH FLIGHT

Open Meeting at Armory To Precede Visit to Class At High School

The people of Washington C. H. and the surrounding community are to be given an opportunity to learn something about the Civil Air Patrol, commonly referred to as the CAP, when the doors of the Armory are to be open to the public for the meeting to be held there Wednesday (tonight) at 7:30 P. M.

That, however, is only the beginning; for, also on the evening's schedule is a visit to the high school where a class in aircraft engines, conducted by A. D. Engle, is in session.

The general invitation to attend the meeting of the Washington C. H. Flight, as separate organized groups of those interested in aviation are known, was extended by CAP Lieut. B. P. Finkbone of the Middletown Flight. Lieut. Finkbone helped organize the flight here and his position with it now is something akin to the commandante.

Lieut. Finkbone said in his open letter of invitation:

"First, meet with us at the Armory where they (members of the WCH Flight) receive their military instructions under the efficient guidance of Capt. Virgil Sexton and his lieutenants.

"Second, visit with us at the high school where a class in aircraft engines will be held."

The WCH Flight of the CAP was organized last summer. While the membership is not large, it includes many who foresee a future for aviation and are anxious to get some practical foundation in it for themselves.

Officers of the CAP and members of the flight here are enthusiastic and have hopes of expanding. They say they see it and its program as an effective entering wedge for Washington C. H. to get in on the ground floor for postwar commercial aviation.

In line with expansion ambitions, a new class of cadets is now being recruited. The CAP is open to boys from 15 to 18 years of age and girls 16 to 18 years old. Lieut. Finkbone said "we are particularly interested in reaching and enlisting boys 17 and 18 years old who will be subject to selective service with in the next year." He explained that for these youths the military end of the training would be stressed because "a boy going into the service cannot have too much training."

Officers of the CAP and members of the flight here are enthusiastic and have hopes of expanding. They say they see it and its program as an effective entering wedge for Washington C. H. to get in on the ground floor for postwar commercial aviation.

In line with expansion ambitions, a new class of cadets is now being recruited. The CAP is open to boys from 15 to 18 years of age and girls 16 to 18 years old. Lieut. Finkbone said "we are particularly interested in reaching and enlisting boys 17 and 18 years old who will be subject to selective service with in the next year." He explained that for these youths the military end of the training would be stressed because "a boy going into the service cannot have too much training."

Lieut. Finkbone said in his open letter of invitation:

"First, meet with us at the Armory where they (members of the WCH Flight) receive their military instructions under the efficient guidance of Capt. Virgil Sexton and his lieutenants.

"Second, visit with us at the high school where a class in aircraft engines will be held."

The WCH Flight of the CAP was organized last summer. While the membership is not large, it includes many who foresee a future for aviation and are anxious to get some practical foundation in it for themselves.

RESISTS OFFICERS, DRAWS $200 FINE

Arley Wynn Also Fined for Another Offense

Judge R. H. Sites believes in protecting his police officers when they are carrying out instructions, as indicated Wednesday morning when he fined Arley Wynn $200 and costs and ordered him committed to the Dayton Workhouse or County Jail until the amount is paid.

Wynn was drunk and disorderly, police said, and resisted arrest. It was for resisting arrest that Judge Sites assessed the heavy fine.

On the drunk and disorderly charge Wynn was fined $10 and the costs when he pleaded guilty to the offense.

Fines assessed totaled $222.40.

HUGE WASHOUT UNDER STREET INTERSECTION

Timely discovery probably prevented a bad accident at North and East Streets, Tuesday afternoon, when a break in the paving, a foot or more across, was found. Investigation disclosed a huge hole under the paving, many feet in depth and several feet across.

The place was barricaded so traffic would not pass over the spot, and street men were put to work Wednesday, investigating the source of the trouble and making repairs.

This danger arose from the fact that the passage of war left many of the small states in political disorder. Factional leaders strove for power. They sought the support of either Britain or Russia and tried to play those great nations off against each other.

The declaration on liberated areas is designed to put an end to these conditions by joining the United States, Britain and Russia firmly in an agreement to take only joint action when necessary to restore order and set up governments in liberated countries.

The Big Three are pledged, too, to uphold the independence and free choice of their own governments by the peoples concerned.

THE WAR TODAY

—By DEWITT MACKENZIE—

The startling announcement by the government controlled Tokyo radio that Japan's policy is "not to reject any hand which offers peace" came to my desk in pre-dawn hours today while I was writing this article to report that I understand our forces in the Orient are worried for fear the Allies won't be as grimly firm with Nippon as they are with Germany.

Without jumping to sweeping conclusions, the Tokyo statement certainly can be labeled as a fishing expedition. The Mikado's little men are scouting for an easy peace, and that thought fits the thesis of my article.

Murlin Spencer, Associated Press war correspondent who has been two years on the Pacific front, tells me there's widespread apprehension among the men that the end of the European war will find the American public weary of conflict and inclined to make a compromise peace with Japan. The Yanks who've been battling the barbarians in the heat of the stinking, disease ridden jungles don't want any temporizing. They want to beat the Japs to a pulp.

Well, I don't believe for a moment the home-front will weaken. We shall see the job through, though the length of time it will take is problematical. The Japanese are fighting a delaying action, just as the Germans have been. They're pursuing this strategy in hope that we will indeed get weary and compromise. For this reason the European war has been a God-send to them. They haven't given a Tinker's Dam whether Hitler won or lost, so long as he delayed transference of Allied war power to the Orient.

Much depends, of course, on Russia's attitude. If the Muscovites should join in the conflict against Japan. It would vastly expedite the end. It's a safe bet that this thought is in Tokyo's mind in today's peace fever. They haven't overlooked, either, that Roosevelt and Churchill conferred over the Pacific war at Malta, en route to the meeting with Stalin.

A Japanese spokesman yesterday described the Battle of the Philippines (which now has regressed itself into the Battle of Luzon) as the strategic climax of the war. He recognized that Allied success in the archipelago would place Japan itself in jeopardy.

Well, he's right, and the Luzon campaign can be written off as a success already, although we still have to wind up the terribly destructive fight for Manila against Nipponese suicide squads, and clean up scattered bodies of enemy forces in various parts of the island. As for the stricken capital, General MacArthur announced today that "the end of the enemy's trapped garrison is in sight."

The rest of the Japanese troops are widely dispersed. Some of them are cooped up on Bataan and Corregidor, of burning memories. Most of them are believed to have fled to the mountainous jungle country in the northern and northeastern parts of the big island.

There still remains considerable mystery as to how many troops General Yamashita has on Luzon and why he didn't make a stronger defense at the outset. He supposedly had at least 150,000 men, though more than 68,000 have since become casualties. So far as concerns Manila, his failure to make a big stand there isn't surprising because MacArthur himself didn't think it possible to defend the capital when the Japanese invaded Luzon.

It looks very much as though Yamashita, being blockaded from further help from home and knowing defense of Luzon was thus rendered hopeless, decided to fight a guerrilla-type delaying action in accordance with the general Japanese strategy. He was shrewd enough to see that MacArthur couldn't leave isolated pockets of enemy troops scattered about, as he has in many previous operations. That won't work in Luzon because our task is to free them entirely from the invaders.

It's quite possible Yamashita and his high staff officers already have fled Luzon, leaving the troops and lesser commanders to fight it out. That is a customary procedure with the Japanese. They don't believe in sacrificing their top men if they can help it.

COUNTY SOLICITING WAITS FOR MATERIAL

Townships Are Divided Among Four Chairmen

While they are waiting for working materials to arrive and be distributed, the county organization of the Red Cross War Fund Drive is laying the groundwork for soliciting rural Fayette County before spring plowing must be done.

Percie Kennell, county chairman, will take Union Township under his wing as far as canvassing goes.

Loren Hynes, W. W. Montgomery and Ralph Nisley each are taking three townships and as chairmen will see that the material is in turn given to the lists of workers which they are compiling.

Hynes is chairman of Jasper, Jefferson and Paint; Nisley of Madison, Marion and Wayne and Montgomery of Perry, Green and Concord. The over-all quota for the ten townships is $5,475.

TALK IS GIVEN ON INDIAN LIFE AT ROTARY CLUB

Barton Montgomery, Senior Class President, Becomes Junior Rotarian

Barton Montgomery, high school senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Montgomery, today is the first "Junior Rotarian" to be named under the club's new policy of sponsoring an honorary "junior" member from the high school.

Barton, president of the senior class, and an honor student, will be a junior Rotarian for several months until another boy from the high school will be selected to take his place, it was explained.

The plan is sponsored by H. O. Noland, Dr. R. M. Hughey and T. H. Craig, Sr., all honorary members of the Rotary Club here.

Barton attended Tuesday's luncheon meeting of the club, held after a week's respite when the fuel crisis closed the Country Club. Harry E. Kenley, secretary of the Wyandott County Historical Society told of Indian life in Ohio as it has been reconstructed from archaeological lore. He described the tribes which lived in Ohio, their customs, transportation, weapons and, to illustrate, brought with him Indian relics which were examined by the club members.

Kenley was introduced by W. J. Hilly, superintendent of county schools.

Robert Willis was named county chairman of the Rotary-sponsored used clothing collection after Dr. W. H. Limes, the club president, told of the nationwide plan introduced by Rotary International.

The 40th anniversary celebration of the Rotary Club, scheduled for next week, will be postponed until March 6, it was announced. Next Tuesday's speaker will be Frank Pauley, secretary of the Ohio Society for Crippled Children, whose subject will be "Help Others to Help Themselves."

Three servicemen guests at the club each spoke briefly. They were Capt. Charles Piersick, former dentist here who has returned from 12 months' duty in North Africa; Sgt. Joseph Campbell stationed at Camp Lee, Va., and Boatswain Mac Whitfield, who is in the Merchant Marine.

One new member, Stanley Chitty, was introduced.

MOTHER HAS LETTER FROM WOUNDED SON

Pfc. Harold Jenkins Writes From Paris Hospital

Mrs. Ella Flee, 401 East Paint Street, today considers herself among the luckier mothers of wounded sons.

Last Thursday she received a War Department telegram telling her that her son, Pfc. Harold Jenkins, had been wounded in Germany, January 25—78 days after he went into battle. Today she has a note from Harold himself, written from a hospital in Paris.

Her son also has been promoted to sergeant, he wrote. Besides the letter from Sgt. Jenkins, which he scribbled from his hospital bed, Mrs. Flee has a card from the War Department.

The card told her Sgt. Jenkins had been wounded in both thighs and in his left leg. He is in the 177th General Hospital, the card said. Mrs. Flee also received her son's hospital address.

Mrs. Flee said she hoped Sgt. Jenkins would be transferred to a hospital in England, for his brother, Pvt. Robert Jenkins, is stationed in England.

Sgt. Jenkins has been in service since December 7, 1942 and has been overseas since September.

BUZZ BOMBS ARE JOKE TO DOUGHBOYS—NAZIS DISGUSTED WITH THEM

"It is bad enough to be chased all over Europe by the Americans and Russians," one captive said, "but when our own bombs start after us—it is too much!"

One "secret weapon" which a group of doughboys invented as a gag turned out to be effective.

In the battle for Brest, they found a cache of German straight-edged razors. Led by S-Sgt. Elmer F. Coverdale, of Milford, Del., and Sgt. Obie C. Peardon, Pensacola, Fla., several infantrymen tied the razors to their rifles and called themselves "The Razor Squad."

In subsequent street fighting, many terror-stricken Germans surrendered at the sight of rifles tipped with sharp-slashing razors.

S-Sgt. Raymond A. Flanagan, former Baltimore Oriole baseball pitcher, might be another Sergeant York if he knew more German.

He knows only one Nazi phrase but it has enabled him to capture dozens of prisoners.

"Come out with your hands up or our artillery will come," he said in carefully memorized German—and the enemy troops, who dread our shelling more than the Fuehrer's anger, come out with their hands up.

One batch of Germans trapped in a house recently gave up after Flanagan hollered out his magic phrase and as one passed the sergeant

GILMORE SENT TO OHIO PRISON

Violates Probation After Given Chance

Millard Gilmore, who was indicted by the grand jury last year, on a charge of taking a truck without consent of the owner and smashing it with a wrecking bar while under the impression that it belonged to another person, was Tuesday sentenced to the Ohio Penitentiary on both counts, after violating his probation.

After pleading guilty to the charges when arraigned before gent, he remarked in English: "You speak very well German, soldier."

Judge Rankin last year, Gilmore was released on probation and upon his agreement to make good the damage of over $300, inflicted on the truck.

Recently he was picked up for violating the law, and Judge Rankin sentenced him to one to 20 years on the first charge, and one to seven years on the second charge.

He will be removed to the state penitentiary without delay.

"We can keep WORKING CAPITAL active . . . by borrowing on ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE"

As business policies are determined for 1945, the question may arise as to how working capital can be made more active and productive. A constantly increasing number of business enterprises . . . both large and small . . . solve this problem by PLEDGING ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE for a commercial loan with this bank.

The general effect of this plan is to release for active duty in the business the company's funds which otherwise might be "tied up" in accounts receivable over considerable periods of time. The working capital "set-up" is definitely improved through this type of operation, as dollars may remain constantly active. Our officers will gladly discuss these loans with you at your convenience.

AT THE RIPE OLD AGE of one hundred, KINGAN & CO. depicts the story of an era, 1845-1945. Out of the American wilderness grew roads and rails, farms and factories, towns and cities. Here was a land fresh with opportunity when Samuel Kingan—founder of KINGAN & CO. in Belfast, Ireland, 1845—established the first Kingan plant in Brooklyn, New York, in 1851.

Even early operations, characterized by the ideals and principles laid down by Samuel Kingan, established a firm foundation for the Company's growth. In 1853, business was expanded westward to Cincinnati, then the center of the pork curing and meat packing industry. When more highways threaded the Middle West, KINGAN moved to Indianapolis, the heart of the hog-raising district and now the home of the main plant.

To meet increasing demands for its product, KINGAN & CO. steadily fanned out through the South, the East and to the Pacific Coast. In 1884, a packing plant was established in Richmond, Virginia, now one of the most important and successful in the Southeast.

After one hundred years of progress and expansion, KINGAN & CO. still carries on the great family tradition of reliability and dependability. The years of experience and skill that lie behind KINGAN now serve new generations who know they can rely on this long established name for quality, purity and wholesomeness in its products.

War Time Courtesy

It is almost safe to assume that everyone read in the newspapers some months ago, about the lady restaurant patron who ran amuck, when upon complaining about the service, the waitress wise-cracked, "Don't you know there's a war on?"

Just as was the case with this righteous-indignant lady, who is there among us who is not conscious every waking minute of every day that "There is a war on?" Who is there among us who does not have relatives and friends who right now may be dying in the far Pacific or on the battlefields of Europe?

It is true that the draft and production for war have made large inroads into the help available to non-war industries and businesses rendering service of one kind or another to the American public. Many of these businesses are conducting their affairs with greatly depleted and untrained forces. It is unreasonable to expect that these concerns can render the service to which we were accustomed, prior to our entry into the war.

On the other hand, all too many firms are over-playing the "Don't you know there's a war on?" excuse. They are using the war as a pretext to skimp on service beyond the exigencies of the war emergency. They crawl behind it to avoid giving to the public what, by honest and prodigious effort, they could really deliver.

Unfortunately, too, some of them are displaying a degree of arrogance that bodes no good for them when the peace has been won and once again there will be real competition in the sale of goods and services.

We doff our hat to those companies and merchants, who despite many handicaps, are rendering the best service possible and doing it with cheerful courtesy. There will be no day of reckoning when peace once again comes to this war-torn world. Many people already know with whom they are going to deal when that happy time comes. They also know with whom they will NOT DEAL.

Courtesy is a very cheap commodity. The shelves may be bare of goods, but the vendor has an inexhaustible supply of courtesy "on tap" if he but chooses to dispense it. Recently, there fell into our hands a copy of a letter written in 1803 to a customer by a sorely-pressed business man. The writer was a man who founded the drug firm, which now, 142 years later, still bears his name and still serves the American people with courteous efficiency. Here is what he wrote:

"Hurry of business prevented your order being completed sooner. I am, indeed, very sorry that my people could not execute it before. You will, I hope, attribute it to the true cause and not a want of attention, for be assured that no one of my customers would command a preference before you, but you know that there were many orders in hand before yours came in turn."

In that letter there is no "Don't you know there's a war on?", or "Don't you know I have more customers than I need?" This man was of that old-fashioned school that was as interested in building the na-

Voting at Eighteen

The movement to lower the voting age to 18 will not down. While Georgia's example has not yet been followed by other states, resolutions for constitutional amendments have been introduced into several legislatures. Now Senator Harley M. Kilgore of West Virginia proposes an amendment to the federal constitution, reducing the voting age. Both he and Senator H. Vandenberg of Michigan introduced such a proposal in the last Congress, but did not get anywhere.

The arguments in favor are hard to refute. Young people from 18 to 21 have jobs of their own. Even if they are going to college, they are apt to pay their own way. They pay income and state sales taxes; why should they suffer taxation without representation? Above all, many of them are fighting for their country. Anyone who thinks they have not earned the right to vote should state his reasons.

With the Ploesti oil fields gone, Hitler soon may have to operate on hot air.

Seems as if some of the competitive statesmanship at Washington lately could be reckoned by the mercury in a burst thermometer.

Diet and Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN
President, Chicago Board of Health

The Menopause And Treatment

One of the most trying periods in a woman's life used to be that period known as the "change," or menopause. Such symptoms as flashes of heat, chilliness, nervousness, irritability, headache and sleeplessness frequently occur, particularly in those cases that do not avail themselves of the most modern treatment. It would appear probable that the symptoms are due to lack of certain secretions formed by various glands in the body, particularly the pituitary and the ovaries. Today, glandular preparations as well as other substances may be utilized to relieve the symptoms of the change.

(Dr. Bundesen will answer letters containing medical questions only through his column.)

Many systems of treatment are helpful. One of them has been reported by Doctor Frederick F. Lane, of Brooklyn, who has employed three preparations in treating about three hundred and fifty patients with symptoms of the menopause. He has carried on this treatment over a period of two years and noted which form of treatment gave the best results.

The first preparations employed are known as estrogenic substances. These are given by injection into a muscle. The second preparation used is diethylstilbestrol, which can be taken by mouth, and the third is a new preparation known as hexestrol-phenobarbital, which is also administered by mouth.

Apparently the best results were obtained by injections of the first preparation used, that is, the estrogenic substances. However, estrogens are expensive and the injections must be given about three times a week, which means a burden for both the physician and the patient.

The results with diethylstilbestrol were not as good as those obtained with the estrogens. The results with the hexestrol-phenobarbital were definitely superior to those obtained with diethylstilbestrol.

More than two-thirds of the patients treated with the hexestrol-phenobarbital preparation showed marked improvement, as compared with less than 50 percent of those treated with the diethylstilbestrol. About a third of the patients treated with diethylstilbestrol failed to show any improvement whatsoever, while less than one-eighth of those on hexestrol-phenobarbital failed to improve.

Another advantage of the hexestrol-phenobarbital preparation is that it does not cause unfavorable reactions as frequently as does diethylstilbestrol. Thus, in the patients treated with this latter drug, more than one-third had reactions, while only about one-fifth of those on the newer preparation reacted to it.

The hexestrol-phenobarbital is given in large doses—from three to five times greater than the doses of diethylstilbestrol. The phenobarbital in the preparation seems to be quite helpful in controlling nervousness and sleeplessness—conditions which are so often present during the menopause. With this treatment it is necessary for the patient to visit the physician only once or twice a month after the symptoms have been brought under control. Thus, many of them have been able to carry on their work. It would appear that the drug is best taken in the evening, before retiring.

In those cases which do not respond to the treatment, the use of estrogens by injections should be employed.

Tomorrow Dr. Bundesen will discuss "Prevention of Coronary Disease."

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

Danielle asked a perfectly natural question—but one that dumbfounded Aggie. "How much gold did they have?"

"Good Lord! I didn't think to ask!" He came as close to grinning as was possible in the little dark room.

"Where's it hidden?" He was on the point of rebuffing that, also, when he saw her eyes dilate with horror. They were looking at the floor; they had kept moving back toward it since she had entered the room; what she was seeing there made him whirl from the cupboard. It was a ghastly thing. Under the blanket was movement. She pointed and shrank into a corner. Her mouth sprang open.

"Don't yell again," he said fiercely. He bent, and whipped back the covering. Dr. Davis's hand had relaxed its hold on the knife and was slipping across his chest in a movement started, possibly, by the weight of a fold of the robe. That was all. Under the robe, such motion had been hideous. Revealed, it was shocking enough, but not devastating. The arm slid away from the knife, down across the chest, and flopped limply on the concrete floor.

Danielle had covered her face. Aggie knelt by the corpse. He touched the skin of its face. It was not cold. Cool, but not cold in the way of yesterday's death, or death hours old. Rigor mortis had not set in. Not yet.

"We'll get out of here in a minute," he said to the girl. He reached again for the blanket and his eye fixed on the protruding knife hilt. A good knife—engraved. And initialed, he perceived, as he bent close. The initials were in fancy script: "H. H. B." Hank—Henry—H. Bogarty. It was—in all likelihood—the knife that had pinned the calling card to Sarah's door. The knife he believed Calder had found and taken.

Aggie gazed at the door that had been locked, and the high, small window. Then he pulled up the car robe again. He rose and took Danielle's arm. "This has been rotten for you," he said. He led her out into the warm night. "Your father killed himself with Hank Bogarty's knife. He must have seen Calder that night! It begins to look as if—after all—"

"Yes," she said. "I don't know what you're talking about—but I know what you mean. Father did it."

"Unless—" He was walking toward her house. "I better see how Sarah's coming along by now—if your phone's working again."

"It isn't out of order."

"It was. Old John tried to get your father before I came over."

They went into the Davis house hurriedly. Aggie tried the phone. "Dead," he said.

"That's funny. It was all right when I went to bed. I called a couple of people just before."

She switched on more lights and half smiled at the figure he made: pajama tops stuffed in his tuxedo trousers, pajama bottoms flaring below. "We've got to get the police," she went on. "And you ought to send for Dr. Smith. He's the best one—in Parkman. Sarah may still need attention. We can go over and raise old man Waite. It's nearest. Golly! I feel sick and feeble."

Aggie's eyes had been preoccupied. Now they fixed on her. "Do you know how the phone line comes in here?"

"From the barn to the house. The garage."

"Have you got a flashlight?"

"I'll get one."

With the flashlight, they went out again—by the back way. Aggie pointed the flashlight and found the place where two black wires were fixed to the house on glass insulators. He followed them in a long span to more insulators on the front of the converted barn and from there, around the side of the building, to a rear corner. At that point, the wires had been snapped from the glass. He turned the light to the ground and found the shiny end of one wire dangling from the maple tree.

"Somebody yanked 'em down," he said. "Must have had a long pole to do it with. Or a ladder. Or shinned the tree."

"Why? What does that mean?"

"I couldn't say. Everything I find out gets crazier and crazier. Was there a phone in the dark room?"

"No."

"The garage?"

"No."

"Put—somebody—took the trouble to pull the wires down. Who? Why? Danielle, I think that somebody—killed your father."

"Behind a locked—bolted door? Or by climbing through a window hardly big enough for chickens?" She had spoken quickly, but she went on sadly. "Why not quit all this? Dad did kill Jim—and himself. We—"

Aggie gasped convulsively. "Come on! We're going to Waite's—and fast! Suppose somebody got him—too—and even Sarah—"

"I did."

"How, may I ask? Aren't you rather presumptuous, young man, to be poking into affairs that are no concern of yours? On numerous occasions you have appeared in a suspicious light—and I think the spectacle of you and Miss Davis rushing about in the small hours—is outrageous!"

No Petticoat President for the Ladies

By MARY ELIZABETH PRIM
MONTPELIER, Vt. — That Harvard professor's dream of a Madame President of the U. S. A. may come true, but she won't come from the 1945 Vermont Legislature.

With a record-breaking total of 45 women in the House of Representatives and one in the Senate, this Legislature seems an ideal proving ground for Professor Earnest A. Hootson's theory that what this country needs is a woman chief executive.

But the ladies of Vermont disagree.

The presidency would seem a pushover for a woman Democrat elected to the Vermont Senate, but Mrs. Kathleen Walsh Hurley of St. Albans, only female member of that body and one of its seven Democrats, is not interested.

"Absolutely Not!" said the slim, prematurely gray mother of two school children.

"Women may mix in politics," continued Mrs. Hurley, whose father held the same Senate seat 12 years ago, "but they shouldn't be given the reins entirely."

As for a possible Republican candidate, Professor Hootson, hox about Rep. Ann Brown Wilcox of Plymouth, cousin of the late Calvin Coolidge? The only drawback is that she has no intention of following in his presidential footsteps.

St. Joseph
ASPIRIN
WORLD'S LARGEST SELLER AT 10¢

"I don't think women yet have the knack of looking under issues," declared Mrs. Wilcox, who also served in the House four years ago. "They need much more political experience."

Widow of a former Vermont Supreme Court Justice, Rep. Wilcox said the election of so many women to the Legislature was due partly to the manpower shortage, but mostly—

Many Capable Women
"Because Vermont is full of capable women."

The legislators range from 34-year-old Rep. Sylvia B. Wright of Rupert, a landscape painter, to Mrs. June Fassett Jones of Goshen, born in 1874. Mrs. Edith I. Sanford of Stamford, 66, now serving her sixth term, has been longest in office.

The Legislature holds an annual "Ladies Week," when legislators' wives are entertained at luncheons and teas. The 46 women members often speculate about how long it will be before the festivity is changed to "Gentlemen's Week."

Washington at a Glance

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — There's a mild little storm brewing, already clouding the horizon, in fact, which may become one of those home front gales. It's over the discharge insignia button to be worn by veterans who have been honorably dismissed from the services.

According to Rep. Louis C. Rabaut, Grosse Pointe, Mich., Democrat, discharged veterans think of little of the button that less than 15,000 of the hundreds of thousands given their honorable walking papers have applied for them.

The lapel insignia is a plastic button, overstepped with a gold-colored alloy, so that it has the appearance of metal. Its only design is an eagle wing-tips extended beyond the edges of the button. One complaint is that it isn't different from patriotic buttons which may be bought in novelty stores. Another is that it is so easily counterfeited that if its use should develop into any significance, the right to its possession would be open to doubt.

Congressman Rabaut's investigation of the criticism against it in his district has disclosed that in one case a veteran of Guadalcanal wearing the button was publicly ridiculed because he appeared physically fit. He was accused of getting it for regular attendance at a race track. And a man at the war factory where he worked sneered that it's "one of those production pins they give you for raising chickens."

In a survey made by the Detroit Free Press, out of scores of civilians and service men shown the button along with several others on a card, only one man picked out the honorable discharge insignia for what it was: that was a veteran who happened to have one—in his pocket.

Its reported here that American Legion posts are getting behind a move to have the button changed to a more distinctive insignia in some allocated metal that can't be easily counterfeited.

Pressure will be put on the services to change the button before any steps will be taken toward legislative action.

The poll tax may still be the most controversial subject to rear its head before the Senate (the House, where endless debate and consequently filibusters are verboten, has passed an anti-poll tax bill several times) but what is happening to poll taxes in the states is something else.

Little Gov. Ellis Arnall of Georgia has just made political history of shoving an anti-poll tax bill through there, leaving only seven states that now have a similar restriction against free voting. By the way, write the name of young Gov. Arnall down in your books. Political observers here who can see the picture are saying that he is one of the most interesting figures to emerge in the south in recent years. He's making news that extends well beyond the borders of Georgia.

Phi Beta Psi Sorority Founders' Day To Be Observed Thursday Evening When Buffet Supper - Bridge Party Is Held

Mrs. Robert Brubaker, Miss Helen Simons, Mrs. Jack Persinger and Mrs. Robert Wilson Comprise Hostess Committee for Affair

An active participant in community affairs and one of the outstanding social groups of Washington C. H., the Psi Beta Psi Sorority Chapter here is possibly best known for its charitable and welfare work, one of the keystones of the parent organization.

Thursday evening, Founder's Day, will be observed by the sorority when a buffet supper party will be held at the L. L. Brook residence on Rawling Street at six-thirty o'clock. Hostesses for the affair will be Mrs. Robert Brubaker, Miss Helen Simons, Mrs. Jack Persinger and Mrs. Robert Wilson. The Washington C. H. Chapter was installed at Chillicothe, April 18, 1923, with Miss Elizabeth McDonald as president. The charter members of Gamma Chapter were Miss Kathleen Davis, Miss Elizabeth McDonald, Miss Eleanor Jones (Mrs. Rufus Short) and Miss Helen McKee (Mrs. William Smith). Shortly afterwards, in May, the first pledges were initiated at the home of Miss Davis. They were Miss Jocelyn Bowen (Mrs. Howard S. Harper), Miss Florence Schadel (Mrs. Ira Barchet), Mrs. Ruth Reid Fenner (deceased), Miss Gretchen Willis (Mrs. Robert Jefferson), Miss Gladys Fenner (Mrs. Paul Strevey), Mrs. Olive Hillery Gidding and Miss Edith Worthington.

Present officers of the chapter are Mrs. Robert Wilson, president; Mrs. Andrew Loudner, vice-president; recording-secretary, Mrs. Harry Ferguson; corresponding secretary, Miss Peggy Devins; treasurer, Miss Laura Schadel; chapter reporter, Mrs. Paul Pennington; conductress, Miss Clara Story; parliamentarian, Miss Helen Hutson.

Various worthy projects for the sorority during the past years have been the maintenance of a Red Cross layette shelf for babies of underprivileged families; purchasing of glasses for school children; promotion of dental examinations in the schools; selling tuberculosis seals at Christmas time to aid in the prevention of the dread disease; sponsoring a Girl Scout troop; presenting a scholarship to a high school girl who showed exceptional ability in the business field; and present-day war projects. The traffic lights which are protecting the children at every principal school crossing in the city were financed by the sorority at a cost of $2,000.

The complete list of presidents is made up of Miss Elizabeth McDonald, Mrs. Jocelyn Harper, Miss Emily Palmer, Mrs. Dorothy Hankins, Mrs. Olive Gidding, Mrs. Portia Brownell Erick, Mrs. Mary Willis, Mrs. Florence Perrill, Mrs. Florence Barchet, Mrs. Frances Rodecker, Miss Helen Hutson and Mrs. Wilson.

Mrs. Gidding has presided as national president of the sorority and Mrs. Harper as secretary, the two being the first grand officers from this chapter. Both women received national recognition for their splendid accomplishments during two-year terms, as did Mrs. Florence Craig when she presided later as national president for two years and Mrs. Gidding as national secretary.

Linen Shower Given Tuesday For Mrs. Ellis

Misses Phyllis Pittenger and Betty Lucas were co-hostesses at a linen shower for Mrs. Beryl Ellis when they entertained a coterie of friends at the home of Mrs. George Inskeep.

Assembling at seven-thirty o'clock, the guests found their places at small tables which had been decorated with suggestions of St. Valentine's Day. Here, a dainty dessert collation was served and enjoyed, at the conclusion of which the guest of honor and other guests were invited to the dining room table.

This had been decorated in keeping with the Valentine motif introduced earlier in the evening. A large red and white decorated Valentine's box held the numerous attractively wrapped packages. As Mrs. Ellis opened each gift, she responded sweetly.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to playing bridge, and when the scores were tallied, prizes went to Mrs. Robert Miller and Mrs. Don Rockhold.

Those attending the shower were Miss Laura Schadel, Miss Sarah Lyon, Miss Norma Jean West, Mrs. Don Rockhold, Mrs. Harold King, Mrs. Richard Smith, Mrs. Robert Miller, Mrs. E. E. Steed, Mrs. Henrietta Ellis, Mrs. Dwight Beatty and Mrs. Paul Chaffin.

Joint Session Browning Club And Cecilians Held Tuesday At Washington Hotel Rooms

Mrs. Ethyl McElwain Featured Speaker for Browning Club; Took Topic, "Speed and Sparkle of American Humor"

Combining the talents of two of the outstanding clubs in Washington C. H., the Cecilians and the Browning Club members enjoyed a joint session in the Washington Hotel Tuesday evening.

The Browning Club room was nearly filled with members of both organizations as Mrs. Ethyl McElwain began her paper on "The Speed and Sparkle of American Humor."

Touching upon every phase of her subject, from the practical joke to the distilled humor of such essayists as Robert Benchley, Mrs. McElwain spiced her paper with amusing examples of the particular humor of which she was speaking.

Some of the types which she included were: puns, often called the lowest form of wit but in reality challenging the reader's or listener's ability to see both the obvious and obscure meaning if properly done; limericks, used frequently by Oliver Wendell Holmes and Rudyard Kipling; humorous songs, such as the "Tippecanoe and Tyler Too" of political campaign fame and the "Yankee Doodle" classic from the Revolution; practical jokes, the sort of humor in which the joker is not on the scene to see but gets his chuckle from imagining the mental confusion of his victims; repartee, called by an Irishman "an insult in dress clothes;" anecdotes and the multitude of subjects they cover; burlesque, which makes the solemn ridiculous and the ridiculous solemn; mimicry, which reflects not only assets but liabilities; and satire, which clothes satirical meaning so cleverly in humor that the reader must be alert to catch the hidden meanings.

Mrs. McElwain read selections from Benchley, Dunn and Ogden Nash before she closed with the thought that "the expression of American humor is changing with the advent of screen and radio, a change which may shelve that humor as it is known now."

Mrs. Robert Meriweather, chairman of the Browning Club program, welcomed the Cecilians before she introduced Mrs. McElwain. Departing from the usual program music, the Cecilians presented a series of cowboy ballads. Mrs. Ira Barchet, chairman for the Cecilians, said "the very heart of America is found in the cowboy" as she explained the origin of Western music.

Mrs. Barchet introduced Miss Mary Elizabeth Browning, who presented George Trimmer, David Looker and Dick Korn, all eighth grade boys, in a lively interpretation of "Home on the Range" and "Don't Fence Me In." Mrs. Browning was at the piano. Second number of the program was an arrangement of "The Dying Cowboy" in which Miss Browning sang the lead as Miss Betty Cook, Mrs. O. W. Woodyard and Mrs. G. B. Vance provided background harmony. Miss Rosalyn Wilson was accompanist as the quartet sang the ballad with its familiar "O Bury Me Not On the Lone Prairie" refrain. Reminding her listeners that they must not forget folk songs are folk songs and not operatic arias, Mrs. Barchet presented Miss Browning and Mrs. Woodyard in the amusing ballad, "The Deaf Woman's Courtship," sung in dialogue. Mrs. Barchet read "Pretty Sally," a Virginian ballad, as the close of the program.

HUGE ROAD AND STREET REPAIR PROGRAM LAUNCHED

COLD WEATHER DAMAGE IN CITY HITS NEW HIGH

Damage in Fayette County Not as Great as in Other Years

Work of repairing the heaviest winter damage to Ohio roads on record is now under way, and will require months before all roads are in a good state of repair once more.

The State Highway Department is moving forward with a program of repair on roads which its director, Perry Ford, said, has suffered the greatest damage in the state's history as result of more than eight weeks of severe weather and wartime traffic.

In Fayette County damage on state, county and township roads was heavy, but not as heavy as it has been during other periods of bad winter weather, it is indicated by highway officials.

Nevertheless the repair work will be extremely heavy and require weeks of labor before it is completed. Cost, will be large.

Concrete roads were among the greatest sufferers from the bad weather, it is stated, and the work of patching them, notably many miles of the Columbus road, was started as early as two weeks ago when a little bright weather permitted.

State, county and township roads will be repaired as weather permits and material is available.

Sharp-edged "pot holes" in many of the main roads, and streets are very destructive to auto tires.

In Washington C. H. the damage to black-top streets, particularly in the up-town area, was very heavy and will require extensive patching to place it in proper condition.

Water that penetrated breaks in the paving froze repeatedly, and as more water was added, the ice forced the paving upward and traffic shattered it.

The prolonged period of ice and snow, State Director Ford said, caused greater damage generally than during the winter of 1937 when floods combined with weather to boost damage to an estimated $3,500,000.

"We're going to start repairs immediately, regardless of weather," Ford said. He explained that a supply of repair material already was on hand that had been chemically treated to make it adhere to wet surfaces. Although the material previously has been used only experimentally, he said it was worth trying in order to keep wartime traffic moving.

He estimated Ohio's capital investment in highways at three-fourths of a billion dollars and said "the state plans to protect that capital investment as cheaply as possible during the war."

The director said both concrete and bituminous surfaces had suffered extensive damage and that a truck traffic survey would be undertaken to aid the repair program.

FARM WORKER DRAFT IS HIT BY GRANGE

Selden Group Protests to Senators, Representatives

Expressing an opinion that further farm labor draft would bring on a serious food shortage, Selden Grange Tuesday night made a motion that a letter be sent to national representatives and senators from Ohio asking that drafting of farm laborers be curtailed.

A copy of the letter also is to be sent to the national Grange master and the president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, it was decided. W. W. Montgomery, W. E. Sollars and W. H. Theobald, the executive committee, were named to write and mail the letters.

It was pointed out that the Tydings amendment still stands and must be considered by selective service officials before drafting farm deferred men.

The Grange went on record also as being in favor of the proposed Fayette County Hospital as $10 was voted for the Red Cross and $5 for the March of Dimes.

Mrs. W. W. Montgomery reported that soya rolls would be one of the baking projects of the home economics committee this year. The rolls will be baked from soya bean flour.

The youngsters took over in the lecture hour as Kay Morter, Mary Lou Sollars and Esther Marting gave readings on George Washington, Thomas A. Edison and Daniel Boone; Billy Case recited a poem about George Washington; Shirley Pegan told the mythological story of Ceres, the name of one of the Grange officers, and the group sang "Don't Fence Me In."

The refreshment committee was Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sollars and Frank; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Montgomery and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Penn and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd McClain.

FOREST SHADE JUVENILES PLAN LECTURE PROGRAMS

Forest Shade Juvenile Grange Tuesday laid plans for lecture programs for the rest of the year as a feature of the February lecture hour.

Bobby Creamer sang a song and recited the Lord's Prayer and Mrs. Robert Ritter, assistant matron told the story of Lincoln also in the lecture hour. A Valentine box was featured also.

Pearl Breakfield and Eileen Tway were named a committee to make arrangements for a St. Patrick's Day Party. The grange contributed $5 to the Red Cross and $1 to the March of Dimes, also.

ARTESIAN WELL RESUMES FLOW EARLY MONDAY

Evidence of Deep Penetration Of Water Recently Is Now Apparent

The flowing well at the former Stewart School House, on the Circleville Road four miles east of Washington C. H., probably the best known in Fayette County, resumed its flow Monday, after having ceased flowing last September.

Other flowing wells are said to have resumed flow this week after many of them had not been active for months.

Most of the artesian wells in the county ceased flowing sometime ago according to an official check made by the Ohio Water Supply Board.

Resumption of flow of the artesian wells indicates a pronounced penetration of water to the lower levels and this has been under way for many weeks due to frequent thawing of the ice and snow which permitted much of the water to penetrate the ground instead of draining off in streams.

Most of the large number of farm wells that had been dry for months have also resumed production of an abundance of water, to the great relief of their owners.

It seems that more water has been penetrating the earth during the thaws over a period of many weeks, that was realized, and the series of thaws, followed by freezes, were responsible for a great amount of water in the soil that would have run off had one big thaw removed the accumulation of ice and snow.

At the present time streams are filled with water and the thick layer of ice is beginning to loosen and move down stream. Ice jams may be expected at many places as result of the large amount of loose ice in the streams.

COUNTY JAIL ROOF IS FINISHED WEDNESDAY

Asbestos Roof Supplants Old Slate Covering

The new asbestos roof on the Fayette County Jail, started several weeks ago and interrupted by severe weather, was completed Wednesday, and once more the structure is without a leak.

The old slate roof that was placed on the structure when it was erected about 60 years ago, had become shattered and many leaks had developed.

The new type of roof is expected to last indefinitely.
